The Siamese Call.

The spring being the season for freaks, Stony Plain district is doing its best to keep in the limit, the newest being an 8 legged calf, with 2 heads and 2 tails. This was produced last week by a cow on the Schindler farm, north of town, and was brought in to a local butcher. The animal was skinned, the hide being sent to a tanner in the city.

To Retain the Farm.

A combined delegation representing Stony Plain U.F.A. Local, the Agricultural Society, and the Town Council, consisting of John Schulz, Ph. Schentz, P. W. Trautman, C. Becker, Jacob Miller, T. J. Hardwick and F. W. Landy, waited on the Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture, on Thursday last, to urge upon him the desirability of retaining possession of the Demonstration Farm at Stony Plain.

As the Minister had just come up from Calgary that morning and was in attendance at an Executive Council meeting in the afternoon, it was quite late when the interview took place.

The delegation was introduced by W. M. Washburn, M.L.A. for Stony Plain, and was well received. All possible arguments were advanced on the Minister as to why the Farm should either be retained or the sale of such postponed until such time as better offers could be obtained for the property. Councillor Hardwick presented the case on behalf of the retention in a very able manner. As had been feared, all the arguments and reasons advanced were of no avail, as these seemed to have the same effect on the Honorable George as water on a duck's back.

The best the delegation was able to obtain was the assurance from the Minister of Agriculture that the Demonstration Farm would not be sacrificed thru the sale; that if the Government received what it considered full value for the property, that they intended to sell the same.

The Homesteaders

—BY—
ROBERT J. C. STEAD

Published by Special Arrangement With the Author.

"I haven't played the game fair with you two," he said, "and I want to say so now. Perhaps it would be truer to say that I played the wrong game. Twenty-five years have proved it was the wrong game. Now, without a penny, I can start just where I started twenty-five years ago. The only difference is that I am an old man instead of a young one. I'm going to take another homestead and start again, at the right game, if Mary will start with me."

She put her hand in his, and her eyes were bright again with the fire of youth. "You know there is only one answer, John," she whispered. "Harris called Travers over from the group of men. 'There's one thing there,' he continued. 'When I started, I had only a wife to keep and I don't intend to take any higher responsibility now. All I will be having is a homestead of his own. Jim Travers, I am speaking to you. I owe you an apology for some things, but an explanation for some things, but I'm going to square the debt with the only gift I have you.'"

"The light breeze tossed the hair of Beulah's uncovered head, and the light of love and health glowed in her face, and thrilled through the fine symmetry of her figure."

"Take her, Jim," he said.

"She is a goodly gift," said the young man reverently.

Anaemia

Thin, watery blood is no more nourishing than thin, watery milk—skim milk.

But you can soon enrich thin blood, overcome the anemic condition and build up the whole system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. F. G. Simmonds, 42 Curtis St., Brantford, Ont., writes:

"For about eight years I suffered from anaemia. My circulation was poor, my gums and lips were pale, and my hands and feet were always cold. I was nervous and unable to sleep well. I had frequent headaches, seemed easily worried or irritated. There was a buzzing sound in my ears. Indigestion was also one of my complaints, and I often was attacked by weak spells. I went to a doctor, who told me I was anemic, but as I did not get any better I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after the first box I felt brighter and my headaches completely disappeared. I continued using the Nerve Food for quite a while. I am quite well now, and cheerfully and gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to people suffering as I did before I used this splendid medicine."

"You think so now," said her father. "You know nothing about it. In twenty-five years you will know just how great a gift she is—or she will not be worthy of her mother."

Harris and his wife were gazing with unseeing eyes into the mountains when Arthur handed them a letter. "It came in the mail which the boys brought on this morning," he said, "and I forgot all about it this minute."

It was from Bradshaw. Harris opened it indifferently, but the first few lines aroused his interest, and he read it eagerly to the end.

"My dear Harris," it ran. "On receipt of your telegram I immediately opened negotiations through my connections looking to a sale of your farm with its crop and equipment, complete as a going concern. I succeeded in getting an offer of the $40,000 you set on it, and had all the papers drawn up, when I discovered that among us we had made a serious omission. You will remember that, a good many years ago, when you were taking on some fresh obligations, you transferred the homestead into your wife's name. I assured the purchaser that there would be no difficulty about getting title from your wife, but as all the buildings are on the homesteaded quarter he would agree to nothing better than paying $20,000 for the rest of your land, leaving the homesteaded quarter, with the buildings, stock and implements, out of the transaction. As his price seemed a fair one for the balance of the property, and as I assured your need of the money was urgent, I closed a deal on that basis, cashed the agreement, and remitted the proceeds to you at once by wire. I trust my actions in the matter meet with your approval."

"Yours sincerely,

"George Bradshaw."

Harris placed the letter in the hands of his wife. She tried to read it, but a great happiness enveloped her as a flood and the typewritten characters seemed to swim before her. "What does it mean, John?" she asked, noting his restrained excitement.

"What does it mean?" "It means that the homesteaded quarter was not sold—after all—that it is still yours, with the buildings, and machinery, and stock, and this year's crop just ready for cutting."

She raised her eyes to his. "Still ours, John, you mean. Still ours."

In the rapid succession of events everyone seemed to have forgotten, or disregarded, Gardner. But at this moment the doctor came rushing out of the house.

"Gardner's gone!" he exclaimed, as he came up to the men.

Some of the party removed their hats.

"Oh, not that way—not that way!" exclaimed the doctor. "I mean he's gone—kipped—beat it. If you understand. Most extraordinary! I was taking his pulse. 'It was about normal, and he seemed resting easier, so I slipped downstairs for the antidote. When I went back—I was only gone a moment—there wasn't sight or sound of him.'"

The men started at each other for a moment; then followed the doctor in a race for Gardner's room. They found it as he said. There was neither sight nor sound of Gardner.

Sergeant Grey conducted a swift examination, not of Gardner's room, but of the one in which Allan was lying. He was rewarded by finding the little slip of paper, with a few crystals of powder still clinging to it. "The doctor examined the crystals through his magnifying glass; then, somewhat dubiously, raised them on a moistened finger to his tongue, and after a moment's hesitation swallowed in an impressive, scholarly fashion.

"Saacharum album!" he exclaimed. "Common white sugar! Most extraordinary!"

But Sergeant Grey was at the open window. It was only an eight-foot drop to the soft earth, and to the policeman there was no longer any mystery in Gardner's disappearance. The rock suicide was a carefully-planned ruse to be employed by Gardner if the worst came to the worst.

At that moment the sound of hoofs hoofs was heard on the gravelly road, and three hundred yards away Gardner dashed through a gap in the trees that skirted the base of the hills. He was on the policeman's horse, and riding like wild fire.

"I want all of you men, and a horse for each," said Grey quickly, turning upon them like a general marshalling his officers. "There are a dozen different trails he may follow, and we must put a man on each. I will give immediate pursuit, in the hope of riding him down before he can throw us off the scent, and I will leave it to you Mr. Arrington to organize the posse and scour the whole country until he is located."

At the sergeant's first words two men had rushed to the corral, and were already saddling horses. The first and fastest was placed at the command of the policeman, and in a minute he, too, was riding break-neck into the hills. But the delay was enough to give Gardner almost a mile's lead, and the Government horse was a match for any on the ranch.

Grey knew that the main road, if followed far enough, dwindled into a trail, and that a bold stroke through the mountains, though it gave Gardner credit for knowing as much, and concluded that the fugitive would make a bold stroke through the mountains. There was no time to watch for tracks; his chance to ride this man down depended entirely upon speed. If he miscalculated, and Gardner, instead of making for the pass, sought refuge in the mountains, the posse would certainly locate him or starve him into surrender. So the officer urged his horse to the limit and galloped straight into the mountain battle-mists ahead of him.

An hour's hard riding brought him into a tremendously rough country, where the trail at times was nothing more than narrow defile or ledge, and sheer walls of rock rose thousands of feet above, their giant edges cutting the blue sky like the teeth of a mighty saw. Far below, a ribbon of green and white, the river rolled in its canyon. Here and there a thin stream of water sprayed down the mountain side, cutting a damp, treacherous belt across the trail. But at one such spot Grey's heart leaped within him, for there unmistakably clear in the thin soil and soft rock, were the marks of a horse's shoe, not an hour old. A few minutes later he saw Gardner swinging round a spur of rock half a mile further up the pass.

The policeman began to watch the moist spots for the tell-tale hoof-prints, and invariably their evidence revealed itself. He knew now that he had guessed Gardner's course correctly, and it was a matter of minutes until he should ride him down. He wondered whether the man was armed or not; it would be an easy trick to hide behind a rock and pick the policeman off as he rode by.

Suddenly, at a turn in the path, his eye caught a sight which made him throw his horse back on his tracks. A sheer precipice fell away a thousand feet below him, and beetling cliffs cut off the sky above. Across the path trickled a little stream, and there in the stream, so clear they could but be misread, were the marks cut by a horse's feet sliding over the precipice.

The policeman dismounted carefully. "There was scarcely room for him to pass his horse on the narrow ledge. Where the stream had worn it it sloped downwards at an uncomfortable angle. The knelt beside it and traced the marks of the shoe-calks with his finger. They led over the edge. Eighteen inches down the mountain side was a fresh scar where steel had struck a projecting corner of rock.

A thousand feet below the green water slid and swirled in the bed of the canyon.

Business on the Mend

Rise in Price of Wheat Creates a Better Feeling

There is a decided note of optimism becoming apparent throughout Western Canada.

The immediate cause of the better feeling is the marked rise in the price of wheat. To nothing will Western Canada react more quickly to little else will it react in a general way at all. The natural born pessimist, of course, says that the rise in the price of wheat is due to special and temporary causes, and that the improvement, visible as its effect, cannot be expected to continue.

The price of wheat may be to some small extent a premature or temporary phenomenon; but it is nevertheless part of a general process observable in every field of basic production the world over, and already casting its reflection upon railway business and shipping and finance, even if it has not yet reached the more subsidiary and dependent industries.

Our prosperity here rests directly upon basic production and its necessary transportation and distribution facilities. We feel the pulse of improvement first and others may take it from us that permanent improvement is on the way, rather than that we should take it from them that it is an access of fever on our part, because they are still in the dumps.—The Winnipeg Tribune.

USEFUL FOR OVER 500 PURPOSES

Gillet's Lye can be used for so many purposes that their enumeration here would be impossible. For example, Gillet's Lye can be used for making soap, in washing dishes, also as a disinfectant. For softening hard water. As a means of removing grease and smoke stains. These are only a few of its many uses, but they serve to indicate what has made Gillet's Lye such a general household utility to-day.

Hail to the Silk Hat, the Herald of Spring.

Nimble fingers, a sense of color, and by that mysterious alchemy the key to the secret of which only a woman holds, a width of ribbon is transformed into an adorable chapeau, becoming wonderfully to the fair face beneath it and harmonizing perfectly with the tints of its wearer's eyes and hair.

Silk hat brims are either off the face with irregular outlines or else they are narrow, and the crowns are usually rather high but intended here and there.

The wood shades are much shown for the smaller hats especially, while orchid seems to be popular for the large hats for southern or midsummer wear.

Urge Dehorning Beef Cattle.

One animal out of every five cattle marketed in Canada is more or less damaged. A conservative estimate of the loss thru spoiled meat on the 800,000 cattle annually killed in the Dominion would be $500,000. Eventually that loss goes back in lower prices to producers.

Dehorning should be done in the spring or fall when the weather is moderately cool. The calf should be treated with caustic potash, a process so simple if carried out when the calf is young, and has so many benefits, that it is surprising there remain farmers who neglect the practice.

All calves should be dehorned at from one day to two weeks old. This operation is simple.

On 2-yr-olds and over use dehorning clippers or saw and dehorn close to the skull to prevent further growth of the horn, as stubs make cattle look s'aggy.

The following reasons are given in urging farmers to dehorn cattle:

It improves their appearance;

They will be quicker, will feed better, will show larger gains at 18 mos cost;

More dehorned cattle can be loaded in cars, and they ship more satisfactory;

All buyers, feeders, killers, shippers and exporters demand dehorned cattle.

Buyers discount horned cattle as compared to dehorned cattle.

Object to Sale of Stallions.

The meeting in Calgary last week of the Alberta Horse-Breeders' Association was a warm affair, according to press reports. The bone of contention was the advertised sale of the two Government-owned stallions, Craigie Masterpiece and Job.

The horse breeders spoke with almost one voice in criticising the Minister of Agriculture for this action; one going so far as to say that it looked as though it were done more to discredit the man who bought the horses (Hon Duncan Marshall) than out of any interest to the horse-breeding industry. The breeders criticised the Minister for having discredited the horses first and then offering them for sale—this not being the accepted way of selling horses.

Mr Hoadley gave a statement as to the cost of the two stallions to date, and stated that it was a question of policy with the Government. He did not believe that any individual member of the association would undertake such a proposition, so why should the province.

A resolution passed asking Mr Hoadley to desist from his present plan of selling the horses.

To show the judgment of the department's head on the value of the stallions, it might be stated that a ten months-old filly foal by Craigie Masterpiece was sold last week to a well-known importer of Clydesdales at Brandon, named B Finlayson. The filly is said to be of great promise, and the price obtained was $900.

Force Railways to Sell Land.

That the government should force the railways to place on the market all the arable Western lands which they are at present holding for speculation, was the contention advanced by Sir Clifford Sifton, former minister of the interior in the Laurier government, during the course of an address on immigration problem before the Canadian Club in Toronto.

Sir Clifford also deprecated any suggestion of housing artisans, mechanics and other city dwellers who desire to migrate to Canada. The only policy which would be successful was that of bringing in self-reliant and independent farmers from the British Isles, together with peasants from Belgium, Galicia, Hungary and other such countries. Sir Clifford referred to the Peace River country and the district along the Hudson Bay Railway would provide valuable land for Agricultural settlements.

Weed Act Hard to Enforce.

J. D. Smith, Superintendent of the Seed and Weed Branch reports on the difficulty in enforcing the Weed Act when farmers have been financially unable to spend much on destruction of weeds. We shall publish every week for the benefit of skin sufferers in this section a few words written by Canadian doctors—some of them prominent—one all heart-felt stories of relief from terrible suffering.

A sentence or two from a letter from J. W. Cross, 25 Malvern Ave., Toronto, a man of fine standing. "I have been a sufferer for two years with eczema on the legs and ankles, third, fourth and fifth fingers. I want to tell you a skin specialist. All of a sudden, I used one bottle of D.D.D.—that is all. Today I am perfectly well."

Try with a trial bottle of this Prescription that Mr. Cross found as a remedy of his skin trouble. It is the first bottle, or your money back. It is the first bottle. It is the first bottle. Try D.D.D. Soap, too.

German Tax Scheme Approved

Finance Minister Says Burden Imposed is Without Parallel

Berlin.—"No nation ever wrote taxation legislation of such magnitude on its statute books as does Germany now that the Reichstag has given its final approval to the Government tax scheme," said the finance minister, Andreas Hermes, to the deputies, in thanking them after the conclusion of the third reading of the measures which approves a compulsory loan, of one billion gold marks and the adoption of which automatically makes effective fourteen major tax laws.

Herr Hermes declared the tax burden imposed on the German people without parallel in history and would demonstrate to the world that the German people were prepared to assume the financial obligations growing out of the last war.

The taxation laws, which received the Reichstag's final approval have been in the making for more than a year, yet hardly anyone in Germany possesses even an approximate idea of the extent to which the individual is affected directly or indirectly by the various taxes which the Government's experts have devised in an attempt to discover previously unlooked for sources for revenue.

Pay Last Tributes To Sir John C. Eaton

Public Demonstration of Mourning is Witnessed in Toronto

Toronto.—All classes of the community from shopkeepers and laborers to legislators and members of the judiciary, gathered to pay last tributes of respect to the memory of Sir John C. Eaton, whose body was laid to rest in the family mausoleum, a statey structure of Scottish grey granite in Mount Pleasant Cemetery here. Representatives of the Federal Parliament, the Ontario Legislature, Toronto city council, the military, the judiciary, the universities, the hospitals and practically all religious denominations attended the funeral service in the Timothy-Eaton Memorial Methodist Church, and followed the remains to the cemetery.

Toronto perhaps never before witnessed such a public demonstration of mourning for the passing of one of her citizens. It is estimated that 50,000 people at one time were banded in the vicinity of the church, waiting for an opportunity to enter. The procession was uninterrupted for four and a half hours when the doors closed to prepare for the funeral service. Four prominent ministers, representing different denominations, took part in the service, including the pastor of the Eaton Memorial Church, Rev. C. A. Williams.

Sir John Craig Eaton was regarded as Toronto's biggest multi-millionaire. The interests of which he was the head had ramifications in many parts of Canada, Great Britain and foreign countries. He was prominent in philanthropic and patriotic work. He was born in Toronto in 1876, and succeeded his father as head of the company in 1907.

Lady Eaton and four young sons and one daughter survive; also Mrs. Timothy Eaton, mother of Sir John; one brother and two sisters.

Report Was Exaggerated

London.—Winston Churchill, the colonial secretary, stated in the House of Commons, that the steamer Upton which was seized off the Irish coast last week by raiders, who stored its cargo in some unknown place, contained not more than 25,000 rounds of ammunition. The vessel originally was believed to have carried 500,000 rounds.

Milk Famine in London

Believe Supply Held Up On Account Of Price

London.—There is a milk famine in London. It is believed to be the result of the recent reduction in price from ninepence to fivepence per quart. It is thought the farmers are holding up the supply, as they complain of the large margin between the price they receive for milk and the retail prices. Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, minister of agriculture, questioned in the House of Commons on the matter, admitted that the situation was serious but said he was unable to fix or control milk prices.

DO YOU SMOKE TOO MUCH?

There are many men on whose heart and nervous system tobacco produces the most serious results. It causes palpitation, pain in the heart, irregularity of its beat, makes the hands tremble, so the nerves on edge, causes shortness of breath and loss of sleep.

To contract this demoralizing influence on the heart and nerves there is no remedy to equal

MILBURN'S

HEART AND NERVE PILLS

They make the heart beat strong and steady, restore tone and vigor to the nerves, and remove all the evil results caused by tobacco.

Mr. Frank Vallee, 71 Terrace Hill St., Brantford, Ont., writes:—"I had sciatia, rheumatism, and a well-known resident here is showing the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills. 'I had sciatia and rheumatism,' Mr. Lachance stated directly on the knees. 'My trouble started from a cold. I perspired freely with the least exertion. My limbs ached.'"

"Then came the sciatia and rheumatism, and for five years I was a sufferer."

"I took six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Now my health has come back. I feel every day who suffers from sciatia, rheumatism or kidney trouble to use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. They put the kidneys in condition to strain the uric acid out of the blood. Without uric acid in the blood there can be no rheumatism or sciatia.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not make healthy kidneys.

Ottawa.—It is not the intention of the Government to continue the Federal Grain Enquiry Commission as at present constituted. This information was given to the House by Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of trade and commerce, in answer to a question asked by Hon. H. H. Stevens.

That there might be a new commission appointed, however, was indicated when Mr. Robb stated that there was an appropriation in the estimates for 1922-23 to defray the expenses of such a commission.

Mr. Stevens asked if the Government "has instructed the Board of Grain Commissioners to investigate certain violations of the Canada Grain Act, alleged to have been committed by certain terminal elevator companies and sworn to be before the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission."

The minister replied that if specific charges of irregularity were made the Government would investigate them. The late Royal Grain Inquiry Commission had made no report to the Government.
